

The marine lifejacket lamp is a life-saving device mounted on a life jacket. It is suitable for indicating to the rescuer at night the position of the person wearing the life jacket at the sea, emitting a flashing signal to achieve the purpose of life-saving, and the lamp has an illumination function button for night illumination. .

Sea life jacket lights use:

First wear the life jacket, then hold the clothing lamp with your left hand and push the life jacket light switch down to the "AUT" position. After the person wearing the life jacket falls into the water, the water jacket of the life jacket contacts the water and turns on, and the light flashes. Rescuing the attention of the personnel to achieve the purpose of lifesaving. The lamp also has an illumination function, which can be used like a flashlight. When the lamp switch is pushed up to the "LIG" position, the lamp emits light for the user to illuminate. In order to expand the rescued target, the drowning person can also raise the illuminator in the air to increase the area of the light source, so that the rescuer can find the target position of the drowning person.
